Concordia Lutheran High School

Fort Wayne, Indiana

Concordia Plan For The Future . .

Because of the crowded conditions in our present building, plans are being made to construct a new one. The planned site is the twenty-three acre tract at Zollner Stadium. To pay for the building, pledges were made by the Lutherans of Fort Wayne. Our old building is to be sold; and to aid the sale, the land at the corner of Maumee and Anthony has been re-zoned for business.

Concordia Prepares Us For Life. . .

Besides planning for the future of the school, Concordia plans for the futures of its students. By offering a sound plan of study combined with Christian growth, our school helps us prepare ourselves for a fuller, truly happy life.

Administration Coordinates School Program

The task of the principal is to supervise and administer the total educational program of Concordia Lutheran High School so that the objectives of the school are attained. To this end the Board of Directors establishes board policies under which the principal is expected to operate the school's program.

The educational program of the school is broad and solid providing quality education in a Christian atmosphere for all the students. The principal is responsible for sound organization and effective administration of this comprehensive program.

The numerous components of an accredited school require not only the attention of the principal, but also the services of an assistant, director of religion and public relations, attendance counselor, athletic director and other faculty members for various administrative duties.

In a minor role members of the Student Council with its faculty sponsor render many services which assist the principal.

Mr. H. Birkman, as our school principal, heads the administrative department.

The faculty, here shown at a faculty meeting, help with the administration of our school.

Religion Classes, Church Services Enrich Our Spiritual Life

Religion classes are a unique part of Concordia's curriculum. Concordia was founded for the purpose of instructing Lutheran young people in the beliefs of their church. Some may complain that here we are overprotected and will not be ready for the "cold, cruel world." It is true that we are protected, but protected like a young plant in a hot house until it is strong enough to face the elements alone.

Freshmen at Concordia study the Old Testament. During the sophomore year, the New Testament is examined. Church history is taken up by the juniors while seniors are instructed in the doctrines of our church. By the time of graduation, it is the hope of Concordia that the student's faith has been strengthened through a fuller understanding of our Christian beliefs.

Besides formal religion classes Concordia held biweekly worship

English Students Gain Skills In Self-Expression

E. Korte in the world of American literature.

Using her literature book as source of information, C. Dixon writes a theme for her freshman English class.

"Except 'jest 'fore Christmas
When I'm as good as I kin be!"

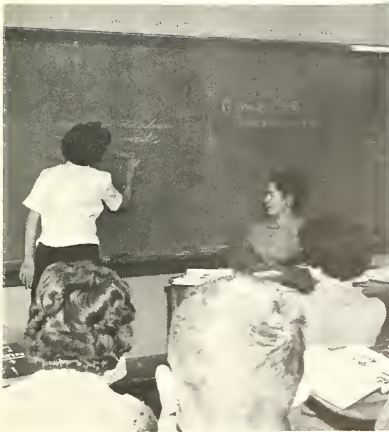

The English courses at Concordia offer the student an opportunity to master his language. Stressed in the English courses are literature, grammar, and the art of self-expression. This year a new program based on classical mythology was initiated. The freshmen studied the Trojan War and Ulysses. The Coming and Death of King Arthur was studied by the sophomores. The juniors assisted in making associations between the literary past and present by the study of mythical derivations of American words and customs. The seniors studied the Arthurian legends and the "Age of Chivalry."

Language Study Acquaints Pupils With Foreign Peoples.

The majority of college-bound students from Concordia take one of the two foreign language courses offered, either Latin or German. The foreign languages give the student a better perspective of his own language and the ability to express himself in another tongue. The department has taken a step forward by adding a third year of German, which emphasizes composition. Latin is still a two-year course, but an expansion is foreseen in the near future.

J. Schoenefeld tacks up a display for Latin.

Under Mrs. Miller's watchful eye . . .

The third-year German class listens to a documentary speech.

Math Classes Learn To Work Well In Our Number System

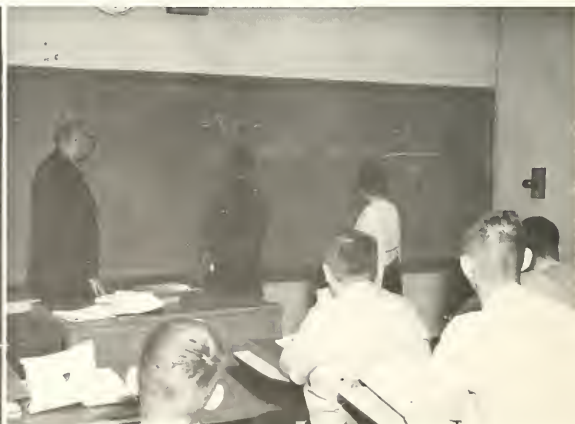

K. Carbaugh uses the large slide rule to demonstrate the solution of a problem.

The Mathematics Department is interested in getting students to reason things out and think logically. Those students who are interested in the science or engineering field need the following courses to prepare them for college: plane geometry, Algebra I and II, solid geometry, and trigonometry. Business math and general math are also offered in this department. These courses emphasize problems which we need to solve in daily life and in business.

T. Steinhauser, J. Walda and B. Mueller examine conic sections in geometry class.

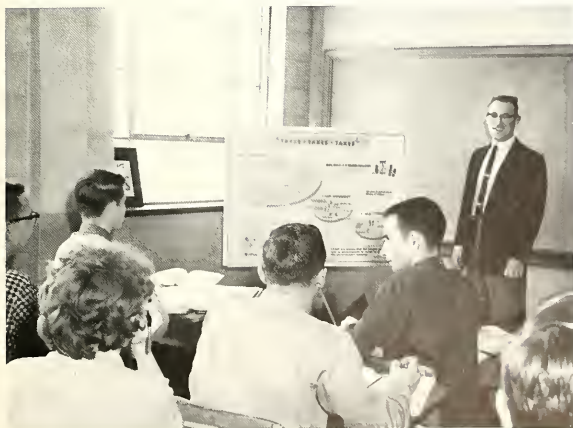

Practice on the chalk board helps algebra students fix algebraic principles in mind.

The Social Studies Dept. Acquaints Students With Our World

The courses offered by the Social Studies Department help students develop new insights into their relationships with other people. This department helps us to understand our position and role in social life and gives us a basis for further training in the areas of economics, civics, geography, history, and sociology.

Mr. Massucci and his American history class discuss pertinent issues from the current issue of the Senior Scholastic.

What happens to the tax dollar? Mr. Leiding shows his economics class just where the money goes.

Mr. Buls points out a historical location for his world history class.

Science Students Prepare For Life In Scientific World

L. Diederich points out distinguishing characteristics of a praying mantis, an arthropoda.

F. Schmeling colors a map in P.G. showing physical characteristics of the earth.

D. Wray and M. Webber perform an experiment in the chemistry lab.

This year a new course, advanced chemistry, was added to the Concordia science curriculum. A one-semester course taught by Mr. J. Weinhold, it was offered to those who completed the existing first-year chemistry course last year. Besides the new chemistry course, the science department offers four subjects. First year chemistry, also taught by Mr. Weinhold, teaches students basic principles of the chemical world and the chemical changes in matter. In physics, another of Mr. Weinhold's courses, the physical changes in matter are investigated. Students of biology, taught by Mr. E. Meyer, study life processes of plants and animals and make collections of leaves and insects. The last science course at Concordia is physical geography, which is taught by Mr. L. Baack. P.G. students study physical conditions and their causes and effects as they are found on our planet, earth.

Business Students Study Commercial Techniques

The well-rounded business department of Concordia, offering typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business math, business machines, and secretarial training, prepares the student for the business world. Concordia students with a sound business background do not require additional training to hold business office positions. These courses are not intended only for those interested in business careers; they are also beneficial for college and part-time work.

L. Lutz practices for a timed writing.

The girls and Arnold take dictation.

Miss E. Ross does HER homework.

Industrial Arts Dept. Prepares Boys For Work In Industry

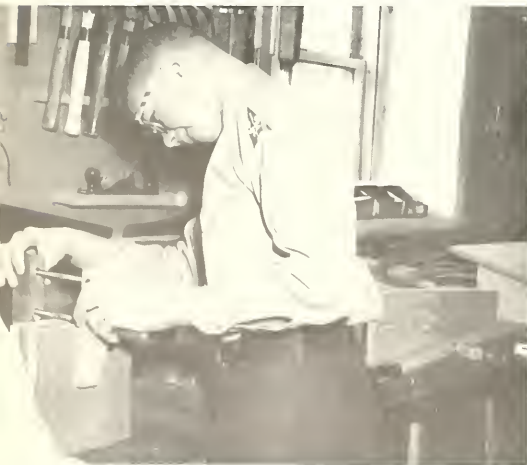

In mechanical drawing classes, boys learn to accurately represent objects on paper.

The Industrial Arts Dept. prepares boys for work in industry. Drafting shows the student how he can express his ideas on paper in a universal manner. In shop class he learns to bring these ideas to reality using raw materials, tools, and machinery. The boys gain new experiences in the operations which they may encounter in their work. Mr. H. Panning is the head of the department.

R. Walda demonstrates the use of the lathe.

S. Golliver clamps newly-glued layers of wood together while they dry.

R. Korn uses the jointer.

Home Economics Students Gain Skills Useful In Homemaking.

The Home Economics department at Concordia offers the girls a three-year course. The first year gives the girls a study of food preparation and various phases of sewing. The second year involves room decorating, advanced food preparation, and major sewing. The third year includes house planning and interior decorating, home nursing, and child care.

These home ec. students hurry to finish a project before it is due.

Mrs. Roop watches over home ec. students as they prepare a recipe of jelly.

C. Tessman and G. Gallmeier sew a fine seam.

Art Classes Help Students Grow Culturally

K. Albers spins a top--ah, I mean pot.

The art department, headed by Mr. John Sturmfels, consisted of two main courses, art and art appreciation. In the art courses, students learn to use structure, composition, color, and different media to express their individual feelings and ideas effectively. To demonstrate and further develop their natural talents, pupils sketch in charcoal and pastels, do abstract paintings in oil, and make three-dimensional pieces such as the coil vase and applicator-stick construction shown on this page. The art appreciation course offers the student a chance to develop culturally through studying and comparing the works of the "old masters" and contemporary painters. The effect of the age upon a painting style is investigated and great paintings are studied to find what it is that made them endure despite these frequently-changing styles. Art appreciation helps pupils come nearer the answer to the question, "What is Art?"

Who's it going to be, Mr. Sturmfels,--me?

R. Bultemeier constructs a masterpiece, but what is J. Tomey doing?

Accomplished Music Students Learn, Practice, Entertain

Concordia's Music Department is divided into two parts---choral and instrumental. The girls' chorus and the male ensemble, known as the Blazers, comprise the choral division. The Band is the instrumental unit. Members of the two sections encountered new experiences---the choir and Blazers pressed a record--and our Band played host to the annual Tri-City Music Festival. The two sections did much to increase school spirit and music appreciation.

The Blazers were a party "must."

The Band practiced faithfully.

S. Beyer and J. Springer sing a number in the musical.

D. Egts often led the band for football games.

Phys. Ed Builds Physical And Mental Coordination

Phys. Ed. is the phase in our curriculum which develops physical and mental coordination. Our God-given abilities are used in basketball, softball, tumbling, football, and for the girls, a new addition----rugby. Participation results in a better understanding of these sports and a greater interest in them.

Joe goes "over the hump"

Phys. ed girls demonstrate trampoline tricks for eighth grades on Concordia Day.

T. Buhr proves that with a pinch of magic dust, a trampoline, and a happy thought (that's a secret) you can fly!

The Military Department Develops Leadership

Promotions are in order for some of our Cadets.

Looks like the assembly is over. . .guess they're happy with their new officers.

The military department, a unique feature of Concordia, does much toward building leadership in our Cadets; it also emphasizes the ability to follow, which is considered just as important. This year the military department was operated under the command and guidance of Colonel van Oosten, who just joined us this year. In the classroom the Cadets are taught modern scientific fighting tactics. Drilling helps develop coordination, and during the winter months the boys are kept in shape by basketball and other athletics. The year was brought to a successful close by Federal Inspection, the Officers' Banquet, and the Military Tournament, which demonstrated the progress and abilities of the boys to the student body and the community.

A salute to the flag of our country.

The Faculty Strived To Impart Their Vast Knowledge And Understanding

The teachers of Concordia High have helped and guided us through another year. We are privileged to attend a high school where the teachers are concerned with our spiritual as well as educational welfare. These teachers strived to impart some of their vast knowledge and understanding to us for our benefit and future use. We thank the teachers of Concordia for their patience, understanding, and encouragement.

Education At Concordia Helps Cadets Prepare For The Future

This year five new faculty members were added to Concordia's teaching staff. Invested at Concordia's first church service of the year were Col. van Oosten, Mr. Timm, Mr. W. Ihssen, Mr. J. Leiding, and Mr. E. Falkenstern.

Education is important throughout our lives. Each day we build our store of knowledge, forming the individual which we are now or shall become in the future. When one says the word "education", he thinks of mathematics--or maybe English. But those factors are only part of education. The people we meet, the experiences we encounter---these form an individual. We are privileged to attend Concordia--where our teachers are concerned with giving us guidance in a Christian atmosphere.

J. Burns and R. Cowell use the library's facilities to help them study.

September registration opens another school year.

Living Religion Aids Cadets In Spiritual Growth

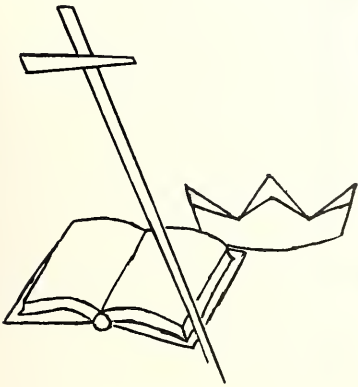

In religion classes students learn to more fully understand Christian doctrines.

Cadets worship together before the beautiful altar at Concordia Church.

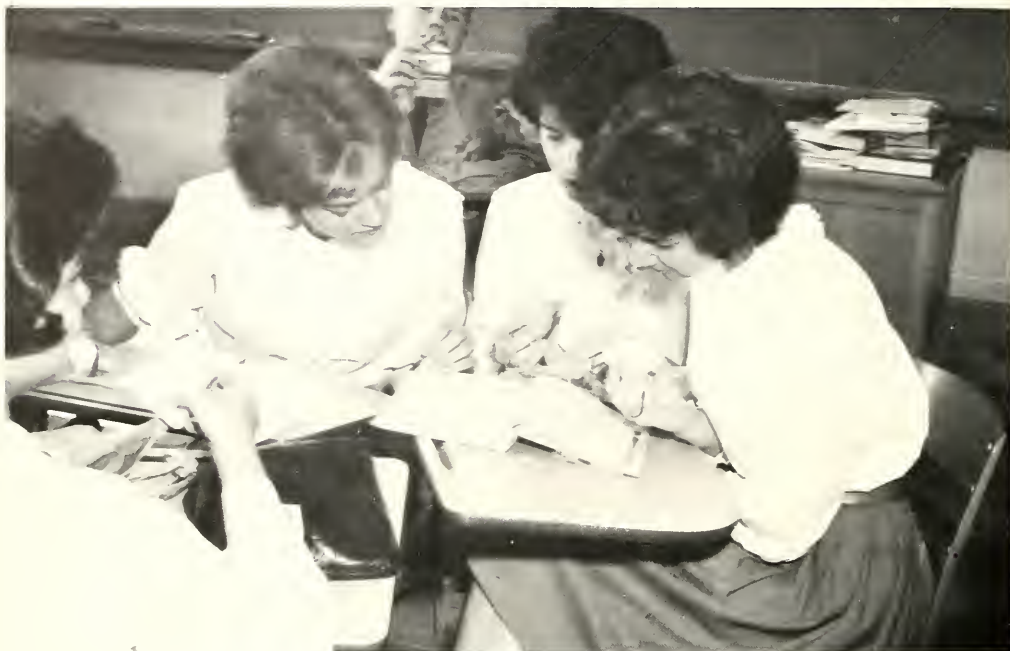

The religious aspect of Concordia is undeniably important to Cadets because it helps them to grow spiritually and prepare for life in the often-hectic work-a-day world. In classrooms young Christians learn to understand basic doctrines of the Church more fully. During bi-weekly church services the entire student body unites to worship together and bear witness to the bond of their common faith. The value of this Christian training is reflected in the wholesome attitude generally found in our Concordia halls and classrooms.

We pray .

Lunch Period Is Time To Eat; Time To Study

M. Stilwell, J. Bultemeir, L. Davis, S. Maki squeeze in a little learning between bites.

To students--and perhaps a few teachers --the lunch hour is a most vital part of Concordia, and provides not only a time to eat, but also a time to catch upon any studies not completed the night before. It gives students the needed half-time rest between classes and time to re-collect their wits to tackle the last few hours. Just think--at lunch time the school day is half over.

J. Sheets, D. Vogel, R. Stein, P. Gerken join in a "bull session" with their buddies during lunch hour.

Students Find Information, Pleasure In Library

The Concordia library, headed by Mrs. B. Meyer, is available to Cadets seeking information for research papers, books for class book reports, or just plain reading enjoyment. Our library now consists of about 5,000 volumes, including five encyclopedias. Approximately 300 books are checked out each week. Mrs. Meyer is aided in running the library by student volunteers and the members of the library club.

Mrs. Meyer checks for a book in the card catalog.

W. Reimer, B. Gugel, and M. Hemminger help Mrs. Meyer in the library during free periods.

Students use the library's resources to complete an assignment.

Enthusiastic Cadets Urge Team To Victory In Pep Rallies

Sara joins the rest of our cheerleaders in getting Cadets to "raise the roof" with a rousing yell.

While the weather permitted, we Cadet fans gathered on the front lawn to sing our team's praises and urge them on to another victory.

This year, perhaps more than any other, we Cadets got together for pep sessions to cheer our team to victory. In the autumn while the weather was still nice, we gathered on the lawn to learn new cheers and spark our enthusiasm for the first few games. Later, the Indiana Tech. gym reverberated with the sounds of our voices and our band playing the school song. Skits by the various classes added humor and sparkle and left us in a higher key of excitement. When we left the gym and ambled back to our classrooms, strains of "Our Boys Will Shine Tonight" echoed in our ears--and we knew they would.

Hopefully, these girls "run through" their cheer while waiting for reserve cheerleader tryouts to begin.

Cadet Fans Enthusiastically Support Their Teams

One little, two little, three little--

The Cheer test?

Once again, Concordians appeared at stadiums and gyms to cheer the football and basketball teams in victory and defeat. The enthusiasm, good sportsmanship, and energetic support displayed by the students upheld school spirit and the good name of Concordia High in our community. United in faith we competed against many teams, always reflecting our Christian training while enjoying the fun and excitement of another hard-fought game.

School Parties Provided Gaiety After Many Cadet Games

Ruth certainly seems to be enjoying herself.

Don and Nancy could have danced all night!

Concordia-ites take an eat break between dances.

Parties

With teenagers of our own faith, many school sponsored parties were held during the year. These included the P. T. A. record hops; the colorful Holiday Dance; the impressive "Moonlight & Roses"; and the Prom, ending another school year. Who can forget the dancing, eating, and enjoyable entertainment at these and our various class parties?

The Kings provide live music for our "Moonlight and Roses" dance.

Seniors Leave Concordia With Mixed Feelings

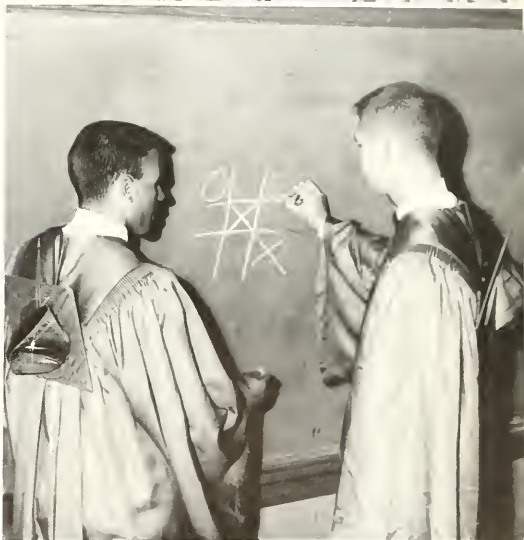

Remember me.

L. Rathjen helps D. Rugenstein with a troublesome collar on cap and gown day.

Really, Keith and Jim have made great progress since their freshman year.

Our senior year has come and nearly gone. With mixed feelings we look to the time when we must say good-bye to the classrooms and halls of Concordia forever. Perhaps we will come back again, but only to visit and recall fond memories; memories of our first days as freshmen, our first Sadie Hawkins Day, our class parties, the Junior-Senior Prom, and the day we saw a girl from our own class crowned queen. Games and sportsmanship played a big part in our development. Never will we forget the thrill when the Sportsmanship Trophy was wheeled into the gym during a pep session. And looking back we will most of all be thankful for the fine Christian education we have received to prepare us for our future years. Concordia, we say "Thank you and good-bye."

For the last time before they part, the senior class gathers to worship together.

Organizations

Concordia has extra-curricular activities for students with almost any interest. This year, for example, a new camera club was started and a dark room built for those interested in photography. These clubs help a student become well rounded by encouraging him to associate and work with others on projects in which they are mutually interested.

Student Council Governs Cadets

The Student Council, sponsored by Mr. R. Buls, is composed of the four officers, the class presidents, and the home room representatives. While trying to satisfy the students' needs, the council has also undertaken several worthwhile projects: the adoption of the Japanese orphan, the home room mission offerings, and the Christmas Bureau food and clothing collections. In addition, the council has tried to further encourage student participation in school activities. This past year has proven to be highly successful for the Student Council.

The Math Club, newly organized this year, had a good start with a remarkably high membership. The mathematicians of our school met during activity periods in order to further their math interest and education. The Club is under the sponsorship of Mr. Daniel.

Math Club Solves Their Problems

These members of the Math Club get together to study any special problems they might have in the field of mathematics.

Lettermen's Ability Honored, Junior Red Cross Serves Mankind.

Cadets who earn a letter in sports activities are entitled to membership in the Lettermen's Club.

The Lettermen's Club is composed of boys who have participated in one of the major or minor sports such as basketball, football, track, cross country, baseball, tennis, or golf. This year the lettermen undertook such projects as car washes and the sale of Concordia sweat shirts. The profits from these projects helped to defray costs on letter jackets. Mr. Koch is the club sponsor.

The Junior Red Cross has worked together with the school to supply the helping hands and hearts to aid the less fortunate and to promote understanding and friendship in the community. Besides cheering those at the Children's Home and Veteran's Hospital with tray favors, the Junior Red Cross conducted the school-wide can drive for needy families. Mrs. Knoblauch is the club sponsor.

Gamma Rho Delta is an organization for those juniors and seniors who have shown, unusual interest and ability in the English language and cultural arts. This group meets once a month at the homes of the members, where interesting topics dealing with drama and modern art are discussed. Each spring, in addition to the annual publication of the literary magazine, the Gammatus, a banquet is held in which all new members are welcomed.

Attending a Gamma Rho Delta meeting are Mr. K. Jordan, sponsor; J. Brunner, treasurer; K. Brodemeir; R. Manske, J. Dohrmann, secretary; D. Aulick, and A. Hartman.

Mr. W. Timm, sponsor; Mrs. H. Knoblauch, sponsor; K. Markey, B. Hensick, Mr. W. Ihssen, sponsor; P. Kreibaum, B. Moehlering, and M. Droege examine an art seminar.

The National Honor Society members shown below are in the top fifteen per cent of the senior class.

In October and in February of this school year the traditional "Tag Days" were held for the incoming members of the National Honor Society of Concordia. Members tagged in October rank in the top ten per cent of the senior class while those chosen in February are in the next five per cent. The purpose of the society is to increase the scholarship, service, character, and leadership of American high school students. The highlight of the year is a banquet which is attended by the Concordia members, their parents, and members of the faculty. Mr. Weinhold is the sponsor of the society.

T. Klage is congratulated by Mr. J. Weinhold after being "tagged" by M. Birkman and S. Hans.

The life-line of Concordia High is our newspaper, the Lu-Hi Voice, presented by an energetic staff. The paper brings to us news of fellow students, members of the faculty, and the administration. The various staff editors are assisted by underclassmen who will assume their duties in the coming years. Much time and effort is spent in the production of the paper, which now appears every three weeks instead of monthly as it did in past years. Mr. K. Jordan is the faculty advisor of the Lu-Hi Voice.

The Science Club stimulates the interest of the student in various fields of science involving chemistry and physics. Besides inviting several guest speakers, and conducting tours, this club held discussions of mutual interests.

The Biology Club nurtures the student's interest in the science of living things. Here the students, who find class time too short to widen their knowledge in this field, try to satisfy their curiosity. The meetings are highlighted by the time spent in the lab where members explore the microscopic world and are forever asking, "Mr. Meyer, what's this squirmly thing?"

Librarians, Projectionists Aid Teachers And Students

Here the Librarians' Club is shown in its element.

The Librarians' Club is a group which aids in the running of our school library. The members help check books in and out, file necessary items, find books for confused students, generally keep track of our complete book stock, and dust the shelves. While being of service to the school, the members also learn the system used in libraries throughout the country. This could be a great help in finding summer or permanent employment.

Mr. E. Meyer sponsors the Projectionist Club and instructs students in the proper operation and careful maintenance of various audio-visual machines. The members of their club serve the school and faculty as operation projectors and recorders. David Muhlenbruck is president of the club this year.

The projectionists aid teachers with audio visual equipment.

The first major production of the year was Thornton Wilder's Our Town. In February the all school musical "Sticks and Stones" was presented. Thanks to a postponement of the second performance due to inclement weather conditions, the revue was presented three times instead of the scheduled two. The season was climaxed with the annual award night. Mr. J. Sturfels sponsors the club.

Pucker up, boys!

Our band provided the special zip so necessary for our pep sessions, football and basketball games, and special school functions. The band's performances were not only pleasant to the ear, but also eye-catching since the members have new uniforms. Mr. D. Marsh is the band instructor and Mr. D. Schult directs the band at the games.

L. Bauermeister and S. Bozer show off the new band uniforms.

The Choir And Blazers Sing To The Glory Of God

Sing along with Mark . . .

A service to our Savior, self, and community—this is the specific purpose of the choral groups at Concordia. Singing the salvation by the Word is their primary function. The two groups enriched the church services conducted at Concordia High School and also those at area churches. The choristers performed before civic organizations and on the air. The male section of the choir, known as The Blazers, is now in its third year and is much in demand. Both groups are under the direction of Mr. C. Henke.

Above are pictured the Blazers, who sing both secular and sacred music.

G. A. A. And Rifle Team Members Gain Skill And Coordination

The G. A. A., an active club at Concordia, helps stimulate interest in games, sports, and social activities. It helps to develop and to promote the ideals of Christianity and sportsmanship. Each member is trying hard to gain the prized numerals and letter. This is done by receiving points for various activities done individually and together as a group. This year the organization was so large that it had to be split into two sections: freshmen and seniors met together and sophomores and juniors met together. The two groups joined, however, for such activities as ice skating. Mrs. Retrum is the sponsor of the group.

Our rifle team once more engaged in a successful season competing with teams from various schools in Indiana. The team consists of Cadets from all four classes. At the end of each season the five members showing the highest individual scores are awarded letters. This year the team was under the direction of J. Ohnesorge.

Snap Squad, Officers Club Work Hard For Military Dept.

Bottom row: Major T. Huge (commander), Cpl. M. Evertson, Lt. Dettmer, Sgt. D. Aulick, Sgt. B. Zimmerschied, Cpl. E. Hambrock, Sgt. K. Haugk, Second row: Cpl. R. Stein, Sgt. L. Utrecht, Cpl. J. Stillwell, Sgt. R. Koehlinger, Lt. T. Schoenherr, Capt. D. Nord, Cpt. D. Wray.

The Snap Squad, a department of the Military Program, performs at numerous exhibitions, parades, and basketball and football games. The group, under the direction of Major Tom Huge, consists of twelve members and two alternates. After tryouts held in the fall, a board of officers selects the best-drilled cadets to form the Snap Squad. Any sophomore, junior, or senior is eligible.

The main purpose of the Military Officers' Club is to promote the more efficient operation of the military battalion. It consists of those Cadets having a rank of Master-Sergeant or higher. The president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer must be elected to office by a majority vote of the club members. Only seniors may hold the office of president and vice-president whereas a junior may also be elected secretary-treasurer.

Sports. . .

School sports had a unifying effect on the student body of our school. Competition with other schools brought out a strong feeling of school spirit. Students of Concordia, however, should, and did, show a special type of school spirit. Their Christian training led to a high degree of good sportsmanship, both among the team and among the student body. The athletes cooperated in an unselfish team spirit while the students supported and cheered them through victory and defeat.

Coach Massucci tapes John Narhwold for the big game.

The Football team, headed by Coach Koch, had a rather successful season despite the young and inexperienced squad. Four of our gridders were picked for honorable mention in an all city ranking. Tom Doehrman, Don Schoenefeld, and Keith Markey were among those honored. At the end of the season Keith Markey and Bill Reimer were jointly chosen by their fellow team members as team captains. Don Schoenefeld was, at this time, selected as The Most Valuable Player.

Cadet fans cheer the team on to win a hard-played second half.

Coach Mader again led our cagers through another basketball season. We placed third in the N.E.I.C. with a six-two record. Overall, though, we didn't fare so well. Our nine-twelve record didn't place us too high on the city scale. But despite the discouragements, we won several impressive games such as the one against South Side. Our boys really did a good job. We were sorry to hear that Coach Mader will not be with us next year, and we wish him the best of luck.

Boys Prepare For Varsity On Freshman And Reserve Teams

Reserves: Kneeling - S. Wissman, J. Roemke, D. McLeish, G. Fritz, T. Steinhauser.
Standing - J. Walda, D. Schroeder, J. Toms, D. Werling, P. Amt, J. Sheets, D. Carpenter, S. Troxel, J. Werling, Mgr.

Reserve Basketball

Mr. Massucci is the coach of the reserve team, which holds its games immediately preceding the varsity competition. The boys have both spunk and ability, proving themselves good material for coming varsity teams.

Freshman Basketball

This year's freshman team showed its ability under the coaching of Mr. Leiding with a winning record. The players' skill can assure Concordia of future winning seasons for reserve and varsity teams.

Freshmen: Kneeling - D. Pressler, M. Veiss, T. Wilcoxson, J. Claycomb, T. Schmidt.
Standing - Coach J. Leiding, J. Diemer, L. Armstrong, P. Schoenherr, R. Messman, H. Dreyer, J. August, D. Dierks, S. Lentz

SENIORS ONLY: BEAT 'EM

Cross Country, Track, Tennis, Golf, and Baseball

He made it!

Cross Country is the branch of track in which contestants run a two mile prescribed course over an ungraded trail. Excellent endurance is necessary, and therefore training and practice are a year-round prerequisite. The team is under the direction of Mr. Reinking.

The track team consists of all field events. These include: running, jumping, vaulting, hurdling, and shot-putting. These vigorous sports take much time, effort, and practice on the participants' part. As our third major sport, track also needs the backing of our student body. The members of the team are continually trying to break previously set records which are posted on the third floor corridor and achieve new goals. This spring sport is coached by Mr. W. Koch.

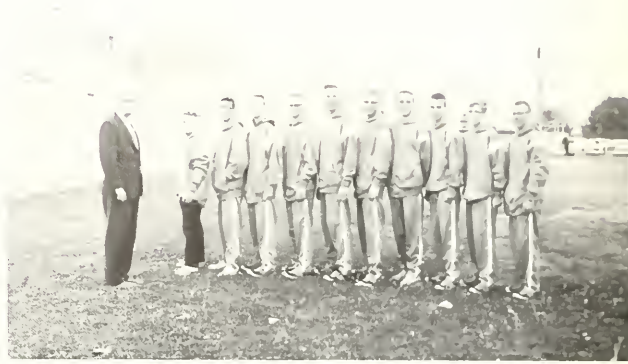

Under the capable coaching of Mr. Daniel, the golf team competes against other conference teams in meets and golf sectionals. The golf team swings into action in the spring and ends the year with a golf tournament.

Teams Looked Forward To A Successful Season This Spring.

These cross country team members are all suited up for a warm-up session.

This skillful group of cadets, under the direction of Mr. Reinking, competed with other city and area schools and brought additional honor and recognition to Concordia by winning the City Tennis Championship. These spirited boys are looking forward to a good year with the return of last years lettermen.

Concordia has its share of America's favorite sport, baseball. The season is short but players found it busy. As the season got underway, the team looked forward to a winning season and hoped for lots of "homers."

So we admit it's an old picture, but would you have missed it for the world?

The Varsity And Reserve Cheerleaders Take The Lead In. . .

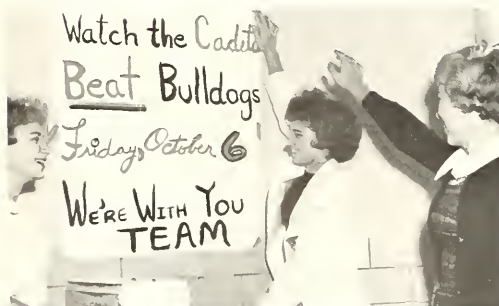

Varsity Cheerleaders - J. Stauffer, C. Lehman, S. Baals, and A. Franz

V-A-R-S-I-T-Y --- Come on --- YELL!
The four varsity cheerleaders led the student body and spectators in boosting the varsity football and basketball teams on to victory. Last spring, as previously the four girls were chosen by the student body after leading them in a cheer; however, starting with next year, they will be chosen by a committee of teachers, the four class presidents, the student council president, and the head cheerleader. The varsity cheerleaders are Sara Baals, captain; Cheri Lehman, Janice Stauffer, and Anita Franz.

"Satisfied?" "Said satisfied!"

Cherie, Sara, and Anita promote game attendance.

Ssssss BOOM!!

...Boosting The Football And Basketball Teams On To Victory.

Victory, victory, VICTORY

M. Stilwell cheers for a victory for the reserve

The three reserve cheerleaders are kept busy leading the cheers for the reserve teams. Together with the varsity cheerleaders, the "reserves" promote game attendance both at home and away, and procure the buses for the away games. Previously they, too, had been chosen by the student body, but this year started with the new system of choosing them by a vote of a committee of teachers, the class presidents, the student council president, and the captain of the cheerleaders.

The varsity and reserve cheerleaders lead the student body in our school song.

Underclassmen

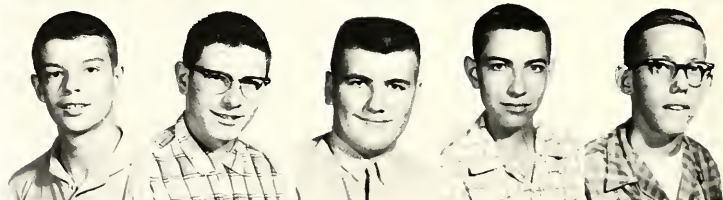

With our Junior year past we have only one more year to go. . . None of us will soon forget the term papers we wrote . . . We got our first chance at the test tubes this year. . . Our come-as-you-are turned up some very interesting costumes . . . Another party in the spring also was a real success. . . We worked hard this year and had a lot of fun, and will be back next year, to try again.

Sophomores End Second Year In Great Shape

Hey, we're not "green-horns" anymore. . . Had a few handsome hobos at our fall class party. . . Most of us had some lines and angles pounded into us. . . And this was the year of the bugs-oh pardon me, insects. . . The varsity teams were graced by some of us for the first time. . . Yes, this was a good year and now we've reached the halfway mark at Concordia.

Frosh Found High School Life An Exciting Experience

Freshmen

Our first year in high school new experience sir, I forgot my combination magazine, magazine get-acquainted picnic is it possible to get from 108 to 302 in 5 minutes? take the white slip; have the teacher sign it, take it home the Freshman treasury is excused from paying for Christmas decorations do they ALL have reference work? looking forward to next year.

Office Workers, Custodians Help Concordia Run Smoothly

Mr. D. Stein, Custodian, stops his work to have his picture taken.

Mrs. L. Roemke and Mrs. A. Masenthin are always on duty to serve you.

Concordia could not get along without the aid of our office ladies and custodians. Many students see our office workers only when they are giving us change, taking our tuition money, or leaving notes that our mothers have called. This is only the surface of their work, however; the filing and paper work needed to run our school is in their hands.

The janitors are responsible for keeping the school clean and in tip-top shape. During the day, Mr. D. Stein performs minor repair jobs necessary. After school he is joined by C. Bender in cleaning up for the next day. On Wednesday nights and Saturday mornings K. Bender also joins the cleaning brigade.

Our thanks to our office workers and custodians!

Mr. O. Bender, the night custodian, cleans a classroom for the next day's use.

K. Gill shows off her twirling skill.

These students are being serenaded by the Blazers.

Beautiful Christmas decorations by the art department added to the spirit of Christmas.
